

Serre du Mouton

Parc national des Ecrins - Réallon

Lac de Serre-Ponçon (Lucien Mariotte)

This hike takes in the views of the Lac de Serre-Ponçon and gives you a close-up view of the Aiguilles de Chabrière. "What I liked about this route is that you go from forest, to areas of wooded meadows until arriving below the aiguilles de Chabrières where the vegetation gives way to white expanses with a breathtaking view of Lake Serre-Ponçon"

2. Saint-Apollinaire

Altimetric profile

Min elevation 1554 m Max elevation 2116 m

1. From the ski pass ticket offices, turn left towards the forest to join a wide track. Turn right uphill, then left at the intersection.
2. At the "Piste de Joubelle" post turn right onto the uphill path. Further on, this joins a track that you have to follow uphill.
3. Once you reach a flat area at the edge of the forest, go left, winding through the forest to reach another track higher up which you must take on the way up. This leads to a clearing; cross it and then climb the slope to the right. The path leaves the forest at the "Serre du mouton" post.
4. From here, continue uphill until you reach the first lookout.
5. Go back up the ski slope for 200m, then turn left after some cliffs on a steep climb. Follow the ridge to the top of the station and continue as far as an orientation table beneath the majestic Aiguilles de Chabrières.
6. The return journey takes the same route.

Advices

- Prendre à boire et à manger
- S'engage sur des itinéraires adaptés à son niveau

Rester sur les itinéraires balisés (et tenez les chiens en laisse) pour éviter de déranger la faune sauvage, particulièrement fragilisée en hiver par les conditions difficiles (lutte contre le froid, difficulté à se déplacer dans la neige, rareté de la nourriture...).

✿ Milk Vetch (A)

The astragalus alopercurus (from alopex: fox and oura; tail) is a spectacular plant due to its size. It has long leaves with many leaflets. It blossoms when the weather gets warmer and shows off a beautiful cluster of flowers at the top of a tall hairy stem. Several yellow corolla grow out through thick protective hair to take in the sunshine and the warm summer winds.
